The George is the ideal venue for meetings and events with 6 rooms and more than 2,000 square feet of meeting space. All meetings and events are catered by The George's restaurant Bistro Bis.

- The Gallery a two-story interior courtyard provides access to the Leaders room, a 1200-square-foot private function space that can be divided into three separate rooms accommodating 120 guests total.
- The Back Room, features a glass-enclosed space, a black granite-topped table seating 14 with individual high-speed Internet access and ergonomic chairs, provides the perfect venue for small meetings and dinners.
- The Inspiration Room, with its floor-to-ceiling windows overlooking E Street, offers an intimate setting for small receptions of up to 20 people.

Dining:

Located adjacent to The George is the highly acclaimed Bistro Bis, where Chef Jeffrey Buben serves clever interpretations of classic French bistro fare. Bistro Bis provides all in-room dining and catering for private events at The George, and is a privately non-Kimpton owned restaurant. The restaurant is a popular hangout for politicians, celebrities and journalists.

Design:

Newly renovated in early 2014, The George pays homage to the first president of the United States in both name and décor. Neo-modern contemporary design elements enhance the interior public spaces, complimented by a collection of modern art throughout the hotel. A signature piece of the hotel's collection is an oil-on-canvas portrait of George Washington by Andy Warhol protégé Steve Kaufman. Parchment and ink drive the color palate in the guestrooms while oversized graphics of George Washington's inaugural address create a feature wall in each room. Rich dark accents contrast with the custom accent pillows on each bed based on Washington's uniform.

History:

Formerly the Bellevue Hotel built in 1928, The George was dramatically re-sculpted in 1998 to incorporate large expanses of glass, stainless steel and fossilized coral stone with in a traditional façade.

Guestrooms:

139 guestrooms with weekday rates ranging from $299 to $439
Weekend rates available starting at $139

The Presidential Suite, the hotel's principal suite, features a living room, meeting and dining area and a powder room, as well as a spacious marble bathroom with a shower and free-standing soaking bathtub.

Recent Awards & Accolades

Fodor's 100 Hotel Award, Boutique Chic Category – Fodor's Travel, 2014

“The major chain hotels can be found within a mile of the Capitol, but a better option is The George, a Kimpton Hotel with a fun George Washington theme and animal-print robes. A stone's throw from Union Station and the Capitol, it has the added bonus of a very decent restaurant, Bistro Bis, which also has a sexy bar.”

The New York Times, May 2014 – 36 Hours in Washington, D.C.

“Managed by Kimpton hotels, the Hotel George was D.C.'s first hip boutique hotel. Today it has a lot of competition on that front, but it still stands out for its swanky guest rooms, airy lobby, and free nightly wine hour.”

Business Insider, June 2013

“Adjacent to the Capitol and one block from Union Station, a hotel in this location probably could do well just offering squeaky cots in empty rooms. Thankfully Hotel George — in-room yoga mats, posh bedding and Warhol inspired prints of the hotel's namesake (Washington, not Bush) — didn't settle.”

Curbed.com, June 2013 – The 38 Essential D.C. Hotels

“This sleek, modern hotel near Union Station is frequented by power players and the occasional celebrity. The in-house restaurant, Bistro Bis, is a favorite among Hill types.”

Washingtonian Magazine, 2012

Good Earthkeeping Award, Small Hotel – Hotel Association of Washington DC and AH&LA, 2011
